ALIEN SOIL AT CAPITAL.

A Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Record says: Foreign governments are preparing to annex still more of the territory of the District of Columbia. France is negotiating for an acre in the well West End of Washington, and it is rumored that Italy and China are on the lookout for land. As soon as such negotiations are completed the annexed property becomes foreign soil. France's new acre, for instance, will be exempt from taxation. The French flag will fly over it. If one Frenchman chooses to murder another within its bounds it will be none of Uncle Sam's business.

France intends to build the most pretentious embassy of the new world upon this acre. It will be a perfect model of modern French architecture, and will comprise a luxurious dwelling for all future ambassadors, offices for secretaries and attaches, stables and coach houses. The buildings and ground will cost $270,000, and as soon as the official architect of the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs can reach here from Paris the plans will be completed under the supervision of Ambassador Cambon.

The site is upon Sheridan circle, lately laid out at the intersection of Massachusetts avenue and Twenty-third street. It is just four squares beyond Stewart Castle and the Westinghouse residence. It is about a block past the new Townsend mansion, the walls of which have recently been built about an old house whose destruction was forbidden by a spirit medium. The new embassy windows will overlook Rock Creek and the gleaming monuments of Oak Hill Cemetery, where Blaine lies buried.

One of Washington's most historic houses will be open to a new tenant when Ambassador Cambon removes to this new embassy. If shades of the departed ever return to scenes of terrestrial pleasure many illustrious spirits haunt the present French Embassy, at No. 1710 H street, a few doors beyond the Metropolitan Club.

This mansion was built just seventy-five years ago by Richard Rush, statesman and diplomatist. King Edward well remembers the present French Embassy. A dinner was given there in his honor, the second night of his visit to President Buchanan at the White House. Lord Lyons was then Britain's Minister to Uncle Sam's court. He was an old bachelor, and thereby hangs a tale. One day as he sat in his office in the Rush mansion he received from Queen Victoria an autograph letter announcing to President Lincoln the marriage of the present King Edward to Queen Alexandra. Lord Lyons proceeded to the White House and forthwith, bowing and currying much, delivered to President Lincoln the letter and the carefully studied announcement. Lincoln took all the dignity out of the occasion by replying, in his droll manner: "Lord Lyons, go thou and do likewise."

In 1894, when M. Jules Patenotre, former French ambassador, married Miss Elverson, of Philadelphia, France first leased the property for an embassy. That of France will be the seventh patch of foreign soil acquired within the bounds of Washington. The first was the acre of ground at Connecticut avenue and N street, bought by Sir Edward Thornton, British minister, about 25 years ago, and the present British embassy was built at a cost of $125,000. Sir Edward paid 15 cents a foot for the ground, now valued at $5 a foot.

The Germans were next to purchase a large property—a house on Fifteenth street, within the square just below the Shoreham. Seven years ago they sold it at a profit and bought the present embassy on Highland terrace. About 15 years ago, the Japanese bought General Capron's house, at No. 1310 N street, and have occupied it since. Two years later Mexico built a $60,000 mansion on land purchased on I street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth. About the same time Corea bought her present embassy on Fourteenth street and Iowa Circle, just opposite the new Logan statue. Finally the Austrian government, through Baron Hengelmüller von Hengervar, the present minister, purchased in 1895, $80,000, the mansion of former Senator Yale, of Florida. The 15 other foreign governments represented in Washington rent their embassies or legations.

A Good Cough Medicine for Children "I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well-known and popular baker, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by Richard Gibson, druggist.

Counterfeits of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve are liable to cause blood poisoning. Leave them alone. The original has the name of DeWitt's upon the box and wrapper. It is a harmless and healing salve for skin diseases. Unequalled for piles.

DRYING PREPARATIONS simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. All druggists sell it at 50 cents, or it will be mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren st., New York.

Like Oliver Twist, children ask for more when given One Minute Cough Cure. Mothers endorse it highly for croup. It quickly cures all coughs and colds and every throat and lung trouble. It is a specific for grippe and asthma and has long been a well known remedy for whooping cough.
